

Experience

Anne Meyers founded Meyers Roman in 1995, managing its growth until August 2011. Her pragmatism, innate business sense and negotiation skills developed from 40 years of practice and ownership of various businesses. As a former part owner and principal of a construction material supply company, a surety company, an adjusting company and a women's clothing retail business, as well as outside general counsel for a publicly traded business services company, Anne is known for her ability to favorably resolve business and personal disputes while avoiding litigation.

Anne's broad experience contributes to her success in representing the legal and business needs of small to medium size companies. Her clients often consult her on how to structure their business operations to avoid potential business, personal and legal pitfalls. In addition, she skillfully assists family owned businesses in resolving succession issues fairly while respecting family dynamics.

Anne's greatest pleasure is her three grown children (and hopes of future grandchildren). In her free time, she enjoys reading and traveling. She travels extensively on diplomatic missions with the American Jewish Committee.
