

Experience

Peter Turner is an experienced trial attorney representing clients in complex business disputes and commercial litigation through all forms of dispute resolution. His practice focuses on resolution of disputes based on contract, tort, internal governance, ownership and succession issues, employment, professional liability, unfair competition, trade secrets, construction, UCC and banking practices matters. He strives to resolve matters and assist clients in making cost-effective business decisions through reasonable compromise. If the situation calls for adversarial proceedings, Peter represents parties in state and federal courts throughout Ohio before judges and juries as well as in all forms of alternative/non-judicial dispute resolution proceedings.

As a result of the Peter's experience in jury and bench trials as well as arbitration and administrative proceedings, he has developed a practical understanding of applicable rules and procedures and effectively applies that experience that experience in representing his clients' interests. Peter has a proven track record of demonstrated composure and poise through many adversarial situations. He maintains an ongoing flow of communication with clients so as to avoid surprises. Peter advises his clients on not only the legal aspects associated with the risks, challenges and potential outcomes of the situation but also provides guidance to clients on their role while striving to remain objective and credible throughout the process.

Peter is married with two grown sons and four grandchildren. He enjoys spending time with family, playing and watching sports, in particular golf, and reading all types of books, especially mysteries and history.
